

West Newton Elementary School Students Learn the Importance of Helping Others

West Newton Elementary School's students understand the value of helping others. Through "Feed a Friend Day," students were able to share the spirit of teamwork, generosity, and compassion. The school's goal was to help students identify the difference between wants and needs. Through this activity students also learned about the world's consumers and producers as well as global food patterns. Students used their geography skills to locate areas in the world that had a food shortage and then developed plans that could be implemented to assist these students. During this economic time, West Newton's families were excited to provide assistance to others in need locally. All items donated were given to the Newton County food pantry.
